

He took Buck by the scruff of the neck, and though the dog growled threateningly, dragged him to one side and replaced Sol-leks. (Call of the Wild, London, chapter 4)

He	pronoun (simple subject, he's who is doing the verb of the sentence)
took	verb
Buck	proper noun
by	preposition
the	article
scruff	noun
of	preposition
the	article
neck,	noun
and	conjunction
though	conjunction
the	article
dog	noun
growled	verb
threateningly,	adverb
dragged	verb
him	pronoun
to	preposition
one	adjective
side	noun
and	conjunction
replaced	verb
Sol-leks.	proper noun

by the scruff and of the neck are prepositional phrases

He subject

Everything else is the predicate:

took Buck by the scruff of the neck, and though the dog growled threateningly, dragged him to one side and replaced Sol-leks.