

TH

then this that those these thin thick thud them there (rhymes with where)

this, that and the other

These bells sing songs.

This bathtub is deep.

The weather is thick with fog.

Then hand this to them.

Those fans cheer each goal.

There is the thin path that leads home.

The thick mud gets under Beth's feet.

There is an S on the end of Beth's name. There is not more than one Beth. That mark is called an apostrophe. The apostrophe S tells us that the feet belong to Beth. They are Beth's feet.