

Brazil Lapbook

Cut out as one piece. Fold in the right-hand side first so the words are on the inside. Crease the fold. Then cut along the dotted lines. On the other side of each flap you can copy the word written on it. For example, on the back of the "Money" flap, write "Money." Fold in left side so that the Portuguese words are on the inside. The blank side on top is the cover.

	Capital
	Population
	Size
	Language
	Money
Brasilia
190 Million
about 3,280,000 sq. miles
Portuguese
Real
Learn Portuguese!  Te amo! Chee-ah-moe "I love you!"  Você me ama? Voe-say-mee-ah-mah "Do you love me?"

Brazil Lapbook

Color in each section of the pie chart whatever color you like. Color in the labels to match the chart. For example the largest part of the pie chart should match the largest number in the label (51%). Whatever color you use to color in the smallest section of the chart, you should use to color in the label for the smallest number, 5%.

Brazil Lapbook

Cut out as one big piece. Fold accordion style so that the words are on the inside and the picture is the cover. Crease well. Attach to lapbook by gluing down the back of "Soccer is..."

Soccer is Brazil's favorite sport and one of the world's most famous players ever, Pelé, was Brazilian.

In Brazil, as in much of the world, soccer is called a version of the word "football." Doesn't that make a lot of sense?

