

United States Flag

Color the flag of the United States and read about its history.

The flag of the United States of America, nicknamed “The Stars and Stripes” or “Old Glory,” has thirteen stripes, symbolizing the thirteen original colonies. Seven of the stripes are red, signifying the blood that was shed for independence, and six of the stripes are white, standing for purity and innocence. There are 50 white stars, representing the 50 current states. They are on a field of blue, standing for perseverance and justice.
